CREATING DISTINCTION

Neue Grand is a beacon of modern elegance, visionary design and exclusivity, established along Melbourne's most famous boulevard within the city's arts and cultural heartland. Architecture and interiors by Rothelowman delivers a rarefied world that sets its own standards in prestige design with intensely elevated levels of luxury and highly considered indulgences for day-to-day modern living. Equally remarkable in aesthetics and technical precision, a prized residential collection introduces the southern hemisphere's first sky garages to place it alongside its world leading counterparts in Miami and Singapore.

A single residence will occupy each floor in a grand statement of scale and privacy. The statuesque building of glass and artisanal metalwork reflects dancing patterns of sunlight and greenery by day and by night, the glittering lights of a modern metropolis. Ensnared amongst the city's most treasured landmarks, parklands and the bay, Neue Grand is positioned to provide an unparalleled life of access and privilege. Lasting in quality and distinguished in character, each residence is a timeless collectors piece and an iconic addition to St Kilda Road.

ONE

THE BUILDING

A close-up photograph of a blue car's body panel, showing the sleek, aerodynamic lines of the fender and the upper part of a multi-spoke alloy wheel. The lighting is dramatic, highlighting the metallic sheen of the paint and the texture of the tire. The background is dark, making the blue of the car stand out.

INSPIRED BY MOTION

In a narrative of movement enabled by architecture, light glides along tapering blades of silver, traversing and illuminating the building's sleek glass silhouette. Interpreting the kinetics of a car, shards of light refract and reflect, accentuating the jewel-like form in a perpetual state of motion.

A statuesque building echoes technical precision and elegant artistry, carefully considered for its timeless relevance within the changing urban context of St Kilda Road. The life of the building is sourced from the city light, ocean and glow of the sky. Precision and aesthetic rigour command the elegantly tapered façade, conceived as a finely crafted crystal object. Set deeply within its landscaped gardens, the base is angled inwards, before rising vertically, wrapped in a diamond grid and bounded by diagonal columns to emphasise scale. Subtle horizontal incisions and tapering blades of metal articulate sheer glass surfaces to give the building its fine, multifaceted appearance while rectangular prism pockets are set into the form to create deep, private balconies with panoramic views.

A PRIZED ARCHITECTURAL STATEMENT

Premium in design and limited in number, each Neue Grand residence occupies an entire floor and commands breathtaking views in every direction. Architecture expertly orchestrates light and material with an artisanal approach to interior design. With palatial dimensions, crafted detail, private set-back balconies and a glass encased display for your prized luxury vehicles, each home becomes a showcase of elite appointments to set Melbourne living on an international stage.

FROM THE ROAD TO THE SKY

An advanced, German-engineered parking system transfers each vehicle from the basement level to your private residence via a high-speed lift. On entering the security-controlled vehicle transfer area, the driver is directed by a live screen display that guides them to park in the appropriate position. Sensors verify position before the driver disembarks, then uses a secure identification system to activate the vehicle transfer operation before taking a separate lift to their residence. The car transfer system places the car into its own elevator and swiftly delivers it to the residence's garage port at 2.8m per second. An automated sliding mechanism moves the car into place, positioning as a prized showpiece within a high security glass display. Basement parking has been allocated for a third car for each residence.

With vast, corner exposures, the master suite luxuriates in 180 degree views that bestow a sense of theatre to an indulgently scaled space warmed with the natural tactility of wood grain, leather and natural fibres to soften the design and bring lightness and calm to those within.

MODERN DAY SANCTUARY

When the world seems too busy, a luxurious palette invites the senses to feel at ease. Enveloped in swathes of marble and with a distinct orientation to the views, the spacious volumes are appointed with refined forms and lashings of rich, organic textures to give the bathroom a deeply restorative quality.

THE ENSUITE AS AN OASIS OF CALM

Ensuite bathrooms are appointed to each of the three bedrooms. The spaces are open and calming with the honed stone surfaces complementing brushed metallic elements, premium ceramics and mirrors for a balanced textural composition. The master ensuite features a deep soaking tub, freestanding and thoughtfully placed by the floor-to-ceiling windows to seemingly float into the views. To enhance a sense of dimension, discreet shelving appears carved into the stone walls, dual showers are surrounded by invisible panels of frameless glass while walls and floors flow with the luxurious look of marble, beautifully formatted with distinctive cool grey vein structures against a creamy white or mottled grey background. The dual basin vanity is expressed as a single block of stone with above counter basins and sculptural, contemporary tapware.

THE LIFESTYLE

STEP OUT OF NEUE GRAND, STEP INTO THE CITY.

Neue Grand is central to all the best attributes of a world leading city. It sits proudly on St Kilda Road, a majestic, tree-lined boulevard, a leafy extension of the city that has grown into a highly regarded arts and cultural district. It's the perfect blend of history and progress, exciting international events venues and arenas, and the city's key business and financial districts. Importantly, Neue Grand is surrounded by Melbourne's most iconic outdoor spaces including The Royal Botanic Gardens, Albert Park Lake and its Grand Prix track and the glittering ocean and beachside promenades of St Kilda.

Neue Grand is emblematic of Melbourne's growth as a prosperous world class city and a showpiece in the development of St Kilda Road. Victoria's Gold Rush transformed Melbourne, from its humble origins as a frontier settlement, into a booming metropolis and one of the British Empires largest and richest cities. Fondly known as Melbourne's grand boulevard, St Kilda Road was originally a carriageway that linked the wealthy and fashionable St Kilda precinct to the city in the mid 1800's. It soon developed into a beautiful, European-style boulevard for horse drawn transport, shaded by a guard of towering elm trees. The mid-century commercialisation of the area soon saw soaring office towers introduced amongst the streetscape's heritage buildings, mansions, manors and their gardens.

St Kilda Road today is a major spine of the CBD, a product of its past and an intrinsic contribution to Melbourne's future. Central and connected, it links to the pristine Mornington Peninsula and Yarra Valley via the nearby Nepean Highway and also to Melbourne International Airport via the M2 arterial in just 20 minutes. Government and private investment recognises St Kilda Road's rich lifestyle assets. The new Domain Interchange and Anzac Station will expand the district's highly efficient transport networks to serve a booming population. Southbank Boulevard has become the focus of an ambitious project to create 2.5 hectares of community spaces and parkland, adding exciting new leisure opportunities to the area. Lined with famous landmarks, parks and elite schools, the area has rediscovered its residential past to bring new life into a historically significant neighbourhood. As Australia's cultural capital and its fastest growing city, Melbourne's rapid population growth drives a powerful economy and a world's best lifestyle. Internationally acclaimed for its awarded universities and celebrated fashion and design credentials, the world's ultimate sporting city is also renowned for spectacular outdoor spaces and entertainment. Bursting with culinary hotspots, city's riverside promenades and cobblestone laneways offer a multicultural mecca of dining destinations and rooftop bars, bustling during the week but truly alive on the weekends and after hours when the city lights up.
